

Tip

Frozen Balloon Drink Cooler

No one wants to get up from the couch during the game. It never fails, though, that the big play or the ad of the year comes on when you get up to refresh your drink. Setting a cooler in the corner of the room, however, isn't the perfect solution either... all the drips from melting ice and cold, wet hands are no fun. Solve the problem by filling a large bowl or cooler with drinks and frozen water-filled balloons — the water stays inside the balloons, and as a bonus, it's much more colorful and fun! You could even match the balloons to team colors or your party theme. You won't miss another play and your floors and furniture will stay safe and dry (from water, at least... we can't guarantee what happens to the open drink come touchdown time!).

