

Boo Bat Treat Holders

Here's a fun tip that every hard-core crafter already knows — never throw away all those empty toilet paper rolls (or paper towel rolls, for that matter). There are a million uses for them, including these adorable little boo bats! Plus, these cute little guys double as treat holders, stashing away the perfect amount of treats to give out as party favors.

Just paint the empty toilet paper rolls black, then add construction paper wings and googly eyes. Fold over the bottoms and fill with small toys and/or wrapped candies (there are a bunch to choose from at Dollar Tree!). Once filled, fold over the tops to secure the candies, while creating bat ears at the same time. Use as party favors and decorations at your Halloween parties or pass them out to trick-or-treaters and coworkers.

