

Craft

Spooky Apothecary Jars

You don't have to be a kid to love Halloween. If you're looking for more sophisticated and spooky décor, these apothecary jars are a lovely little treat, and it's only a little bit of a trick that they're so easy to make!

Shop at Dollar Tree – Here's What You'll Need:

- Lidded Jars
- Taper Candleholders
- Paper
- Glue
- Glitter
- Markers (or use a printer)
- Food Coloring

Easy Step-by-Step Directions:

1. To make fancier tall jars, glue taper candleholders to the bottoms of your lidded jars.
2. Print labels on your printer or handwrite spooky ingredients on the paper and cut out. Embellish with glitter, if you wish. Some ideas include: poison, love potion, dragon's blood, essence of newt/vampire/slug, and werewolf brains.
3. Glue labels on the jars and fill them with water. Use food coloring to tint the potions.

Fun Tip:

- Dollar Tree has a bunch of cool plastic body parts — add them to the water for a gory spin on the witch's apothecary.

For more fashionable fall décor, hunt for Fall Floral Centerpieces and Studded & Glittered Pumpkin ideas on this month's Value Seekers Club page!